A Word About Trauma...

Trauma and associated words are being used more now than ever. Do we know the origins of these words? Are their meanings different now than when they were first used? Each week we will explore a trauma-associated word's origins, meanings and evolution.

Hyperarousal [hi"per-ah-row'zal] (Noun)

Merriam-Webster defines this as excessive arousal: an abnormal state of increased responsiveness to stimuli that is marked by various physiological and psychological symptoms (such as increased levels of alertness and anxiety and elevated heart rate and respiration). It is also one of three sets of criteria used to diagnose post-traumatic and acute stress disorder. Symptoms of hyperarousal include exaggerated startle response, disturbed sleep, difficulty in concentrating or remembering, and excessive vigilance.

TF345: The Doctrine of Discovery is Not a Doctrine with Archbishop Donald Bolen and Archbishop Richard Smith - Re-leased from the "Up Front with the Archbishop" podcast.

In light of the Vatican's recent repudiation of the "Doctrine of Discovery", we are very pleased to share the following conversation between Archbishop Donald Bolen and Edmonton Archbishop Richard Smith on Archbishop Smith's "Up Front" podcast discussing this latest statement from the Vatican and the true history and context of the Church's relationship with this so-called doctrine. Show Snippet: "Those definitions going hand in hand speak to any concept, argumentation, and justification for European colonizing powers to come and take indigenous lands. And what the Vatican was repudiating was, in a broad sense, any of those argumentations or justifications used to do so, saying it was never right; indigenous people always had rights." Stewardship Bulletin Bit

"Did not our hearts bum within us while He talked to us on the road, while He opened to us the scriptures?" Luke 24:32

How often do you take the time to discern what Jesus is calling you to do with your life? Are your prayers always petitions, asking Jesus to do things for you? If so, that's a one-sided relationship. Living our faith means developing a personal relationship with Jesus. Just like any friendship, there is give and take, each side listening to each other and helping each other out. Take time, in silence, to listen to what Jesus is asking of you today.

LESSON NINETEEN

FAQ: Is the Catechism an expression of inculturation on the global level?

Yes. The Church is not exclusive to any race, nation, lifestyle, or custom. The Church enters into communion with all different forms of culture. The Catechism re-expresses the Christian message at the level of the universal Church, representing a successful inculturation of the faith at a specific level. It reformulates the documentary tradition of the Church within the global culture in an admirable way.

What pictures do we have of the Holy Trinity? Quelles images y a-t-il de la Très Sainte Trinité ?

Catechism Text: CCC # 689

Sacred Scripture: John 1.18 (Father & Son) & Luke 3.22 (Dove/Holy Spirit).

Saints: an exercise in meditation and prayer could provide a personal image/understanding of the Holy Trinity. Likewise, St. Faustina wrote in her diary: I understand the spiritual espousal of a soul with God ... (and) ... I have come to understand His Trinitarian quality and the absolute Oneness of His Being (entry 1020).
