EVENTS FROM OUR PARISH AND OUR FAITH COMMUNITY

Will There be Room at the Inn?

In the last five years the Refugee Committee at Resurrection has sponsored two refugee families. Both families have offered continuous and deeply felt expressions of appreciation for that sponsorship. They express thanks for the things many Canadians take for granted, such as a secure community, safe food and drinking water, health care, and education for their children. Committee members are of the common view that participation has been a very positive experience.

Some Committee members are stepping away and taking on other parish ministries. We are in search of persons who will step up and take on this important role.

The Committee has kept a careful record of the steps and requirements when working with sponsored families. So a road map has been created, it just has to be followed. Typically small groups of Committee members take on tasks according to their skills and interests. Reports on how things are progressing is via e-mail with meetings every 6 weeks or so. Our practice has been to sponsor a single family at a time; each sponsorship lasts one year. As well, current Committee members are prepared to support new members by offering guidance as required. The Resurrection community has financially supported the Committee's activities.

Please consider taking on this important task. Come to one of our meetings and see what we are about. For more information contact: drc.assoc@sasktel.net.

In the words of our Holy Father Pope Francis on the present international refugee crisis, "... we cannot remain insensitive, our hearts deadened, before the misery of so many innocent people. We must not fail to weep. We must not fail to respond."

Statement from the Archdiocese of Regina regarding the Tk'emlúps te Secwépemc First Nation Residential School Grave Site Near Kamloops, BC.

From Archbishop Donald Bolen:

We have all heard the devastating news that has come out of Tk'emlúps te Secwépemc First Nation with the discovery of 215 children found buried at the Kamloops Indian Residential School in unmarked graves. There is an outflowing of emotion: outrage, dismay, profound grief. And we have questions, many unanswered questions that need to be asked in the coming days and weeks. This shared history of residential schools profoundly impacts residential school survivors, and indeed all Canadians.

Here in the Archdiocese of Regina, we have a responsibility to look anew to the four Catholic operated Indian Residential Schools within our diocese: the Marieval Indian Residential School on the Cowessess First Nation, the Lebret Indian Industrial Residential School on the White Calf First Nation, the Muscowequan Residential School near Lestock on the Muskowekwan First Nation, and the St. Philip's Residential School near Kamsack on the Keeseekoose First Nation. There are cemeteries at these schools as well.

Recent reports have stated that there are at least 35 unmarked graves on the site of the Muscowequan Residential School. Indigenous communities here in Saskatchewan are speaking about the importance of using the same ground-penetrating radar technology to search for unmarked graves on other sites of former residential schools. The Archdiocese has a moral obligation to assist in that process, to support the Indigenous communities carrying out that work, and to walk alongside Indigenous brothers and sisters as we face anew the waves of suffering that were part of residential schools. In the coming days, we will seek out ways to enter into conversation with these communities while also continuing the dialogue that has already begun with others so that we can offer support and assistance in this work.

As an Archdiocese, we are striving to show our support and stand in solidarity with the Indigenous community. In the last few days, we have been connecting with and supporting the kohkums (grandmothers) and friends who have been deeply affected by this. Over the past four years, we have taken a number of steps to build right relationships and to walk together in truth and reconciliation. We are mindful, however, that events such as we have heard and experienced are extremely re-traumatizing to the survivors of residential schools. We acknowledge and understand that the road ahead is long and that there is much work to be done. We are in the process of consulting with Indigenous Elders and community leaders on how best to respond as a church. We will have more to communicate in the coming days in terms of direction, ideas, and ways that we can take concrete steps as a church towards healing and reconciliation. It is ever important to walk together in a spirit of humility and repentance and to honestly acknowledge the ways that we have caused deep pain to Indigenous communities.

We know that we cannot hide the past, and we cannot ask people who carry heavy burdens from the past to set those aside. We need to deal honestly with the past, to know as much as possible of what happened, to repent and ask forgiveness where appropriate, to walk together as much as we are able in the present, and to work together where possible in building a better future.

We are profoundly sorry for the hurt that actions and decisions of our church in the past have caused to Indigenous Peoples and in ways that we presently re-traumatize by our actions and inactions. We have heard and acknowledge that apologies are not an end point but a starting point, and are learning how to walk in solidarity. On this journey, we have embraced a simple saying that I learned from Indigenous friends years ago, "nothing about us without us." As an Archdiocese, we invited Indigenous Elders and leaders to join us in establishing an Archdiocesan Truth and Reconciliation body. Since 2017 that group has helped us to identify what work can be done in parishes and schools, in formation, and in the joint pursuit of justice, and we have engaged in that work. We will continue these conversations in the coming days. A key part of what lies ahead will be working together in the field of education, so that more and more people will come to know the history of Indigenous Peoples, the wisdom of their traditions and ways, the suffering they endured, the legacy of colonization in today's society, and ways of constructively walking together today.

May the Creator bring consolation to Indigenous Peoples, perseverance to us all in the pursuit of justice, a healing of relationships, and the grace of being able to walk together in our day.

Yours in Christ,

Stewardship Bulletin Bit

“Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them and they all drank from it.” - Mark 14:23

Jesus, the perfect steward, gave thanks, just before He gave Himself up for us, completely for our salvation. He offers us the same chance to drink from His cup. In the bread and wine, we meet Christ personally. If we follow Him, drinking from His cup means our own self-sacrifice, using all of our gifts for the benefit of others and to do His work on earth.

“I’m more conscious that God is around me all the time. To know that He is everywhere with every person has helped me to step out of my comfort zone. Everyone has their little quirks and I see those as gifts of their own personal freedom of being who they are.”

-Beckey Franke,
St. John the Baptist, Estevan

“Learning about apologetics has been a highlight for me because it involves the defense of the faith. When it is done in a kind and gentle way conversations with all sorts of people open up.”

-Dean Vey,
Resurrection Parish, Regina

At the Lay Formation Program, we are passionate about:

- becoming MORE DEEPLY AWARE of God’s personal love and activity in our lives.
- encountering JESUS CHRIST, discovering his plan of sheer goodness for us, and deepening our relationship with Him.
- MORE INTENTIONALLY integrating our faith in our daily life and in service to Christ.
- receiving the SPIRITUAL AND FORMATION TOOLS we need to follow Christ’s commission to “Go and make disciples of all nations” (Matt 28:19).

The Archdiocese of Regina Lay Formation Program

Share the Joy of the Gospel!

“I’m more conscious that God is around me all the time. To know that He is everywhere with every person has helped me to step out of my comfort zone. Everyone has their little quirks and I see those as gifts or their own personal freedom of being who they are.” - Beckey Franke, St. John the Baptist Parish, Estevan

One weekend a month from October to June, Catholics just like you are gathering in Regina as they become more deeply aware of God’s personal love and activity in their lives. Why not make their story, your story? We are currently accepting applications for our Fall intake.
